In his apostolic exhortation Evangelii Gaudium, Pope Francis emphasizes the importance of the Church’s dialogue with fellow Christians and with believers from other religious traditions.

The University of Notre Dame’s World Religions World Church (WRWC) program’s second international conference, “The Whole is Greater than Its Parts”: Christian Unity and Interreligious Encounter Today, responds to this call by bringing together Church leaders and experts on Christian theology and global religion.

Here at Notre Dame’s Rome Global Gateway, we will explore recent developments and key issues in the relationship between the Church and other religions, emphasizing the dialogue between Islam and Christianity. We will also examine critical questions in recent dialogue among Christian believers.
